The right to make a subject access request is most often used by individuals who want to see a copy of the information a company or organisation holds about them. An individual who makes a written request is entitled to be:

- told whether any personal data is being processed;
- given a description of the personal data, the reasons it is being processed, and whether it will or has been given to any other company, organisation or people; and
- given a copy of the information comprising the data and given details of the source of the data (where this is available).

In most cases your subject access request must be responded to promptly and in any event within 30 calendar days of your properly completed request being received. This is not a full explanation of the law.
